Feed the world and they'll keep changing it.

Kids are the joy of every community. Together, you and Convoy of Hope are strategically investing at a critical time in their lives. By feeding children in schools, kids are getting the nutrition they need.

The food that Convoy of Hope brings to the feeding program center is very helpful because it's nutritious and has vitamins that help the children study and feel strong.

FAQ

What is feedONE?

feedONE is a campaign that supports Convoy of Hope's Children's Feeding program. Currently serving more than 387,000 children in 17 different countries, feedONE believes a nutritious meal shares hope — opening the door for a child to be healthy and well-nourished.

Can I trust feedONE with my money?

Charity Navigator has given Convoy of Hope the Four Star Charity Award every year since 2002. That's the highest rating a charity can receive, and it's something we take very seriously. Charity Navigator, founded in 2001, is the nation's largest and most-utilised evaluator of charities. Their rating system examines two broad areas of a charity's performance: financial health and accountability/transparency.

What kind of food are the children being fed?

We want every child we feed to receive meals that are a balance of nutritional value, local flavour, and context. Some locations build meals on highly-nutritious imported products such as rice and beans, while others purchase all of their ingredients locally.

Where did the name feedONE come from?

Mother Teresa said, "If you can't feed a hundred, then just feed one." We've taken her words to heart. If this generation is unleashed to solve the planet's great challenges, we believe that they will produce a whole new world.

How does my $10 feed a child for an entire month?

The exact cost of food and transportation varies from country to country. We maximize your $10 donation by leveraging our network of vehicles, equipment, and expert staff and volunteers. Through local procurement, program implementation, and oversight, we ensure financial responsibility and program integrity.

Is feedONE part of Convoy of Hope?

Yes. feedONE is a campaign that supports Convoy of Hope's Children's Feeding program.

What info will feedONE provide to each feedONE individual donor?

Every donor gets the opportunity to join our online Children's Feeding community to connect with other likeminded individuals. feedONE emails donors a yearly giving statement and a receipt for each monthly donation. Donors also receive updates and stories in our feedONE emails.

Is feedONE the same as child sponsorship?

No. feedONE administers assistance and provides food through the country's network of local schools, orphanages, and churches. These locations are also known as program centres. This allows us to maximize our impact while also being cost-effective.

Will I receive a photo of a child and be able to write to them?

No. To protect the identity and livelihood of the children we serve and to maximize our impact, feedONE does not allow direct communication with the children we serve. To get updates or read stories from children in our program, visit our online Children's Feeding community.

If I choose to give monthly, how can I update my donation in the future?

Your monthly donation can be updated by emailing australia@convoyofhope.org
